Kyle,

the Division has not yet received your bond for the Green River #9 project. The bond was due in July. The Division order stated that reclamation work would need to be completed by Oct. 15, 2013 if the bond was not posted.

Please let me know if you are going to post the bond or complete the reclamation work.

Wayne,

The last I heard from you was that you had received my application to reduce the footprint of the project (and consequently the bond) but that you were waiting on the BLM to approve it. I will forward you that correspondence.

If since then UDOGM and the BLM have accepted my application for the 1 acre of disturbance please let me know what the new bond amount due is. Also remember that I am going to apply the $6400 plus interest built up over the last several years to the new project. Please factor that in when you tell me how much additional money you are requiring to be posted.

Also UDOGM is still holding some of my money for a small drilling project that occurred on USFS land called Pine Ridge near the town of Lasal Ut in San Juan County a few years ago. Surely the grass has regrown by now. Can that money also be transferred to the Green River #9 mine project?

Kyle,

I did some additional research. The BLM has not officially approved the project or the bond amount.

I sent an email to the BLM asking for concurrence.

The Division will extend the due date for reclamation or increased bond from October 15, 2013 to November 15, 2013.

Paul and I did some research on the Pine Ridge Project. The Division's records show that the project was transferred and a letter was sent to you authorizing the release of the CD.

If you have any question please call Paul or myself.
